Carthage High School

Carthage, Texas

Foreword

Our high school is a link in the role of the community progress of Carthage. The students of CHS, as individuals and as groups, are greatly influenced by the generosity and the concern of the townspeople. Likewise, the youth of the area serve as a source of help, pleasure, hope, and enlightenment for those around them.

In this 1966 PINE BURR, we, the staff, have tried to express this idea of a mutual cooperation between the town and the school, for as the sages say, "We are as strong as our weakest link."

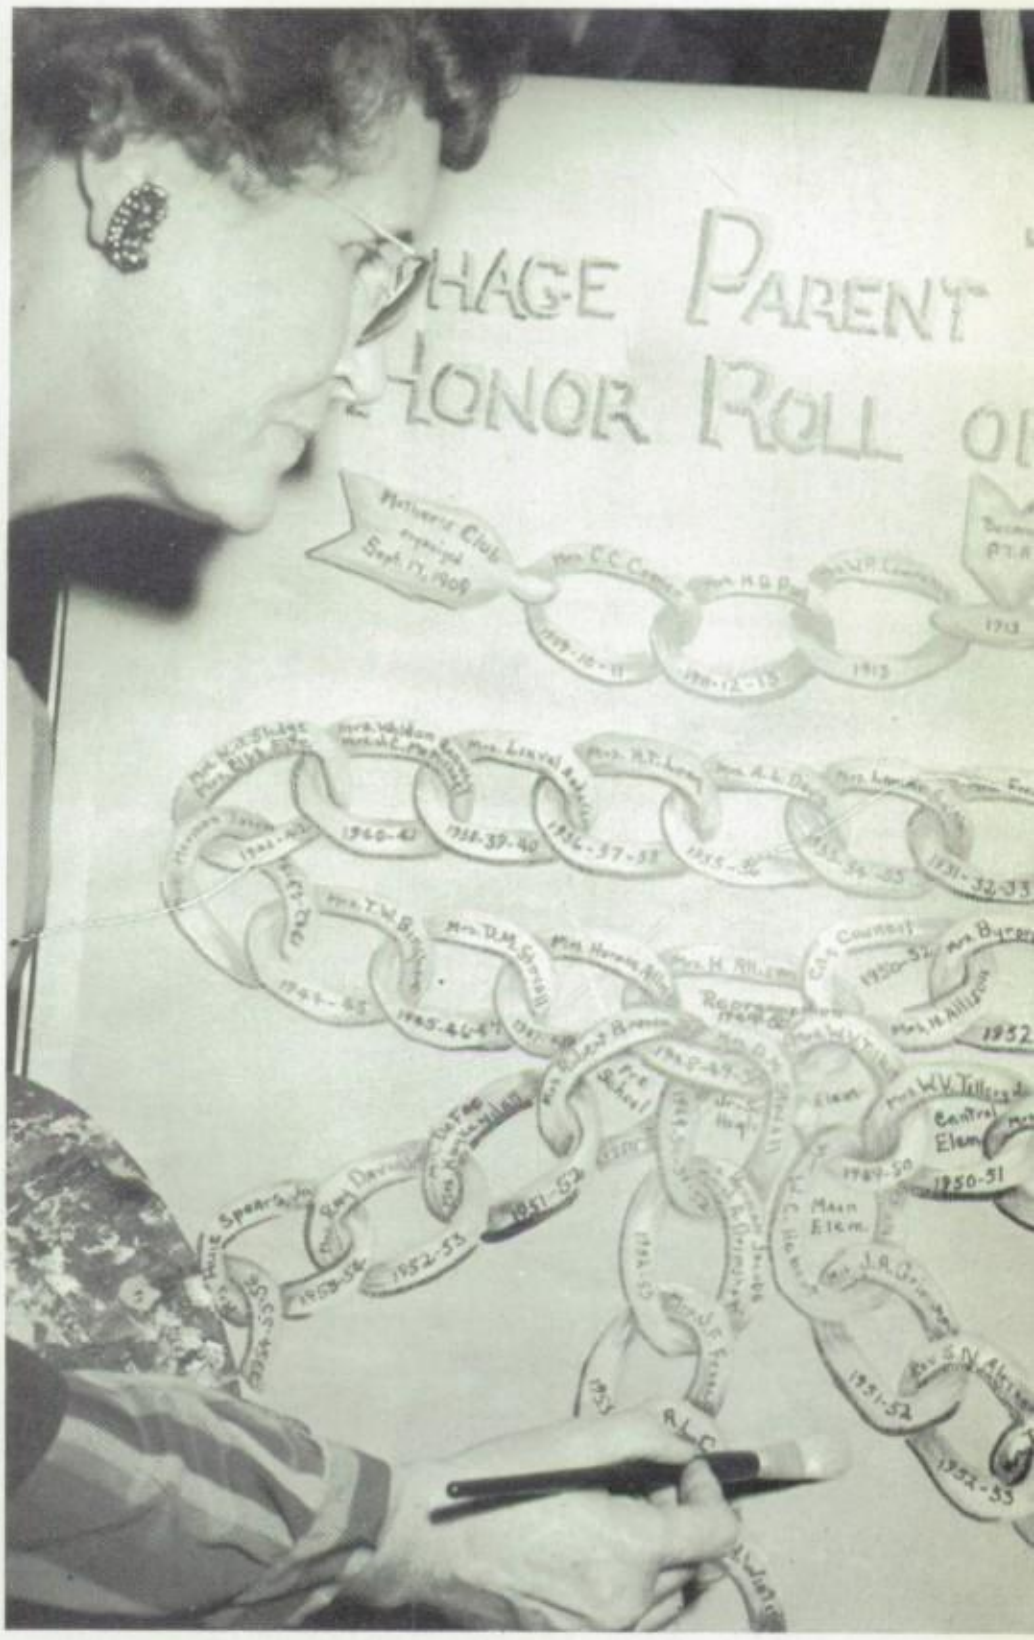
Dedication

Mr. and Mrs. Grady LaGrone . . .

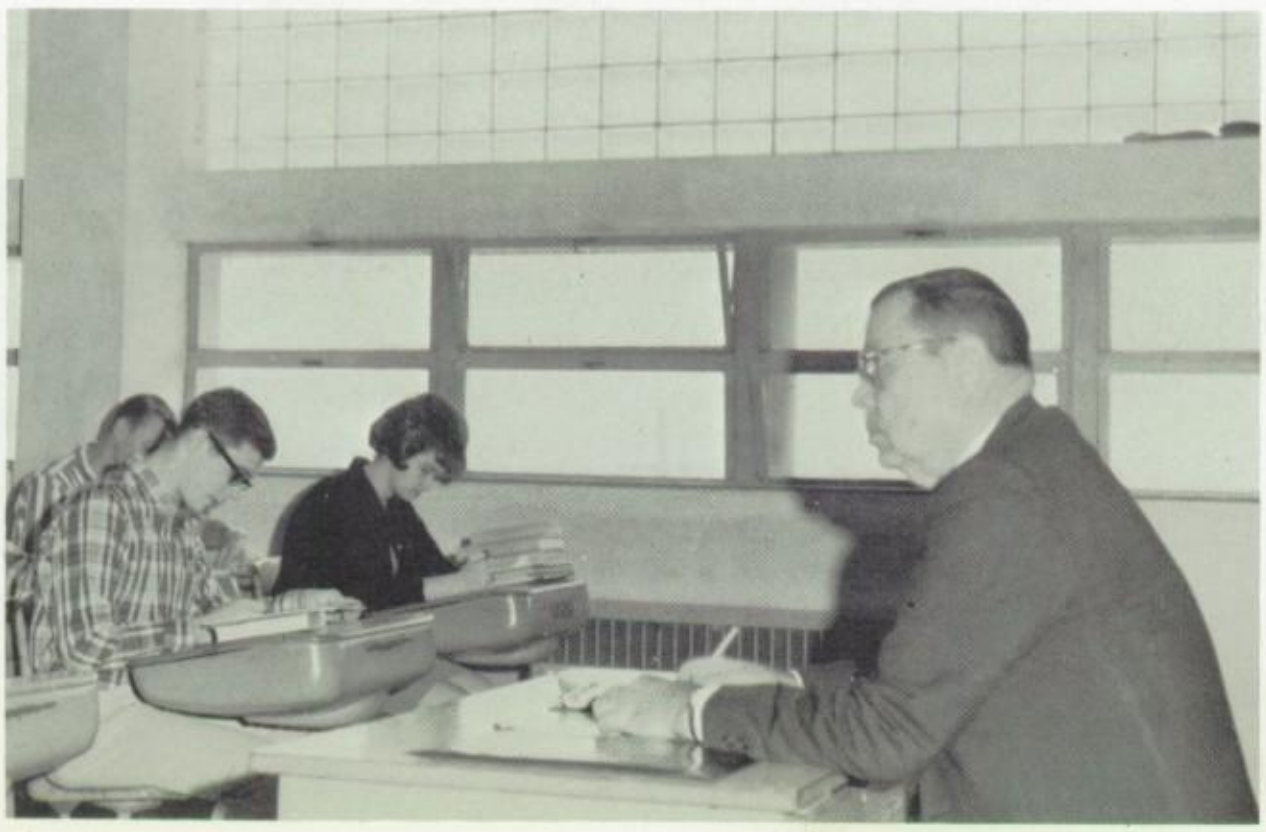
Mr. and Mrs. Grady LaGrone are the inspiration and learning stimulus for many students who have entered CHS doors throughout the years. Both have served the school diligently and unselfishly, Mr. LaGrone as guidance counselor, civics teacher, and in many other positions in the past; and Mrs. LaGrone as senior high literature instructor, with responsibilities as senior sponsor and annual sponsor for several years. In addition, their contributions to the community through civic clubs, church work, the Miss Panola County pageant, P-TA, Lions Club, and many other worthy organizations have won for them the trust and admiration of citizens of the area. For these reasons the PINE BURR staff honors Mr. and Mrs. LaGrone—two important links between school and community.

Mrs. LaGrone this year directed the Village Players in the production of Archibald MacLeish's J.B. Her interest in drama led her to direct the senior play for several years. Her unselfish concern for the future of her students has been an incentive for success to many of her students.

Special Links . . .



Mrs. Leila LaGrone shows her art ability and her civic duties through her work on the P-TA Honor Roll of Presidents.



. . . in Our Chain

Mr. LaGrone serves as civics and economics teacher, in addition to his position as guidance counselor. CHS seniors leave his classes with an understanding of civic responsibility and an appreciation for the American way of life.

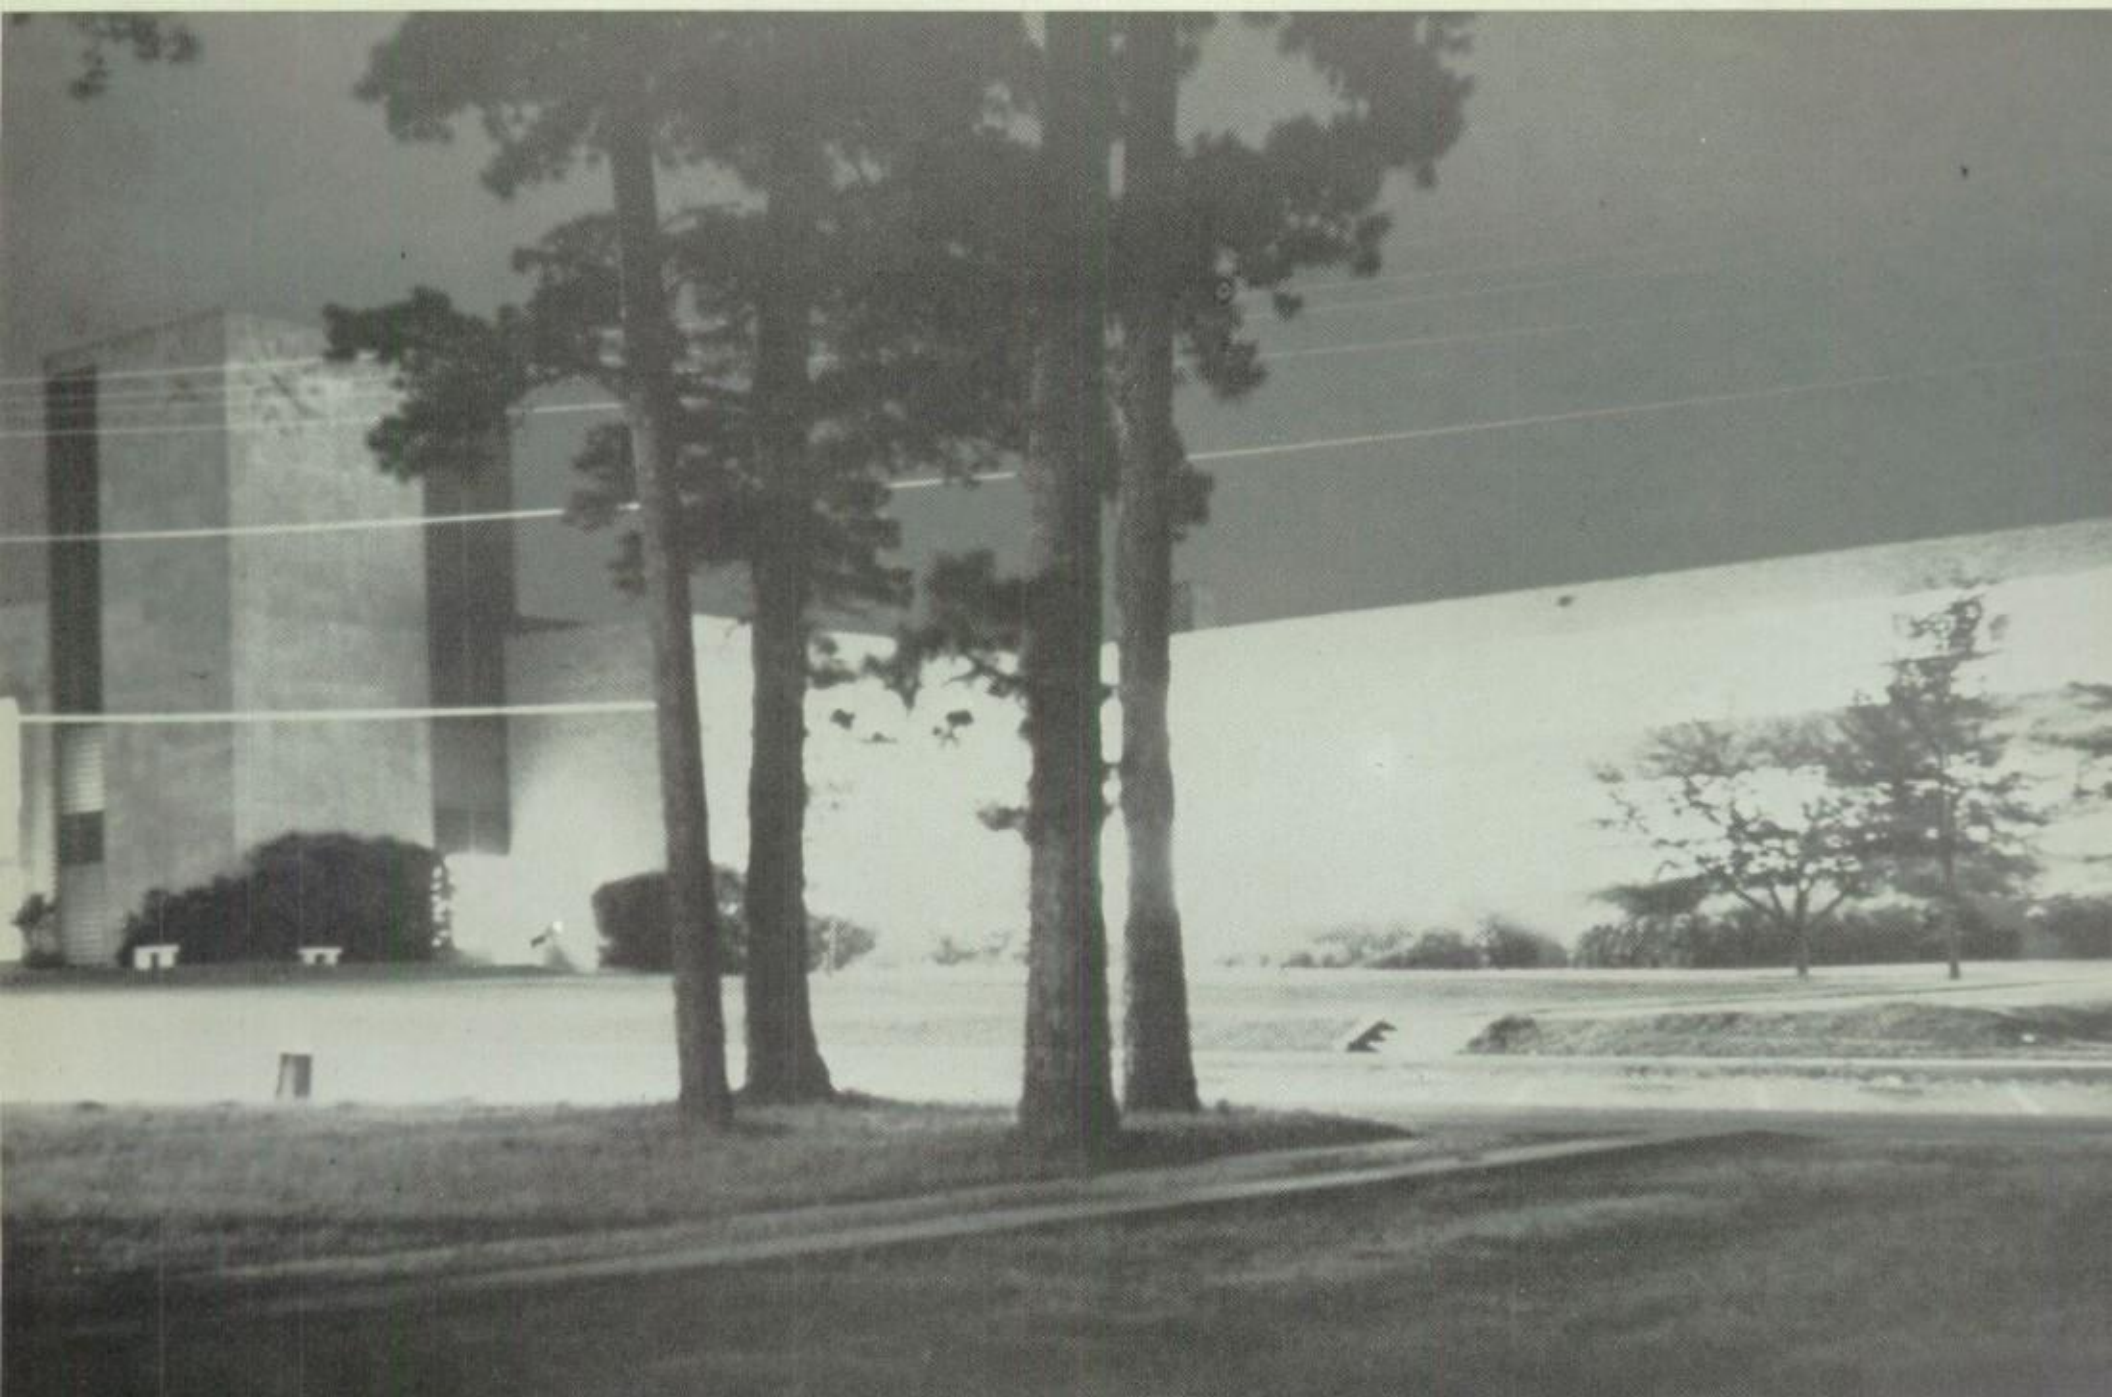
sibility of community life.

More Link to the Community



These Are Links Between Community and Schoo

Carthage High School is the symbol of learning and development in Panola County. Adults in the area guide, respect, and support the promotion of education. Citizens also recognize the symbol of achievement in the wearer of a CHS senior ring. The ring and the school itself are links between the school and community; for from the students of today come the citizens and leaders of tomorrow.

Education Provides a Link

Education links the students to the community. Through the numerous courses taught at Carthage High School, students not only learn "readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic," but also learn how to become a productive part of the community.

In the four years of English offered, students are acquainted with the art of communication, and are taught the rules vital to all future careers.

By the use of the two CHS publications—the CARTHAGINIAN and the PINE BURR—journalism students serving on these staffs inform the community of important school activities, curriculum and extra-curriculum.

Three years of Spanish and two years of Latin, help students to link their community to communities of foreign countries.

Through art, speech, drama, band, and choir, students learn to all to the cultural development of the community.

Through the mathematics, science, and social studies departments, students learn to solve problems and to be more aware of the ever-changing world as well as their own community.

Carthage High School's mathematics curriculum offers courses ranging from basic arithmetic to trigonometry and solid geometry.

Biology, a subject required for all students, may be followed with more advanced courses of chemistry and physics.

In addition to teaching students history, the social studies courses, through civics, help to develop better citizens. Economics aids students in understanding the financial workings of the government.

Various types of training courses are offered at Carthage High School which enable students to grow as versatile members of their community.

Training for future careers, students enroll in typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, mechanical drawing, distributive education, and agriculture. Students planning to enter the business fields have particular interest in the two years of typing and one year each of bookkeeping and shorthand taught. Through the distributive education program junior and senior students obtain part-time jobs and attend school on a half-day basis. In the home economics courses students learn not only cooking and sewing, but also learn nutrition, home furnishings ethics, and child care.

Students

Ten students who represent outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, and citizenship are selected each year by the high school faculty. Carthage High School was chosen by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as one of the ten pilot schools of Texas: thus being chosen as one of the Outstanding Students is quite an honor. These students, however, are not the only ones who achieve. CHS has many outstanding students.

Although a student rarely realizes the importance of the Honor Society nor how one attains this achievement, to be in the Honor Society is one of the most important parts of one's high school career.

Basing the honor roll each six weeks upon the top 15% plus the points that a student attains based upon the courses he is taking, makes the student eligible for the honor roll. For instance, physics points count twice what homemaking do. Thus a student who may have all A's may not necessarily make the honor roll. After a student has made the honor roll three times in one year, he is eligible to be in the Honor Society.

Carthage prides itself on its scholastic achievement. Only because of the difficult manner of gaining admittance to the Honor Society can one understand why scholarship at Carthage is one reason the community and the state consider it a pilot school.

Conducted as a representative form of government, the student council is a democracy in action. Serving the interest and needs of the student body were the homeroom representatives, organization leaders, and class presidents.

At the beginning of the year, council officers were responsible for helping new students become familiar with the school. At this time a calendar of dates was formulated.

Mimeographed minutes of the meeting were placed in each homeroom by the council. As an incentive for the student body to attend all sports functions, the competition between the classes was instigated.

After the homecoming game, the council was host for the Sweetheart Dance in honor of the football sweetheart and her court. An activity of merriment also sponsored was Twirp Week. Students were allowed to wear western clothes on Western Day.

A new function of the council was to provide eighth graders who would be entering high school in the fall with information on available clubs and activities. Organization leaders spoke to the Koonce audience on their respective clubs.

General activities included selling football ribbons, conducting pep rallies, planning receptions after home games, and entertaining the council members with a party in the spring.

Placing first at the Texas High School Press Association Convention in Denton and winning an Award of Distinguished Merit at the Interscholastic Press Conference in Austin gave the Carthaginian sweepstakes for the year.

Fifteen papers were published this year with one extra edition. This extra edition was a salute to the Bulldog football team after their first victory of the season over the Palestine Wildcats.

Thirty-seven journalists with their adviser, Miss Virginia Knapp, attended the Southern Methodist University Workshop. They heard Hal Boyles, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist. He spoke on his experiences in Viet Nam. Several members of the staff also attended a workshop at Denton.

Three staff members, Bonnie Briery, Sandra Roe, and Reba Harris, entered a sports writing contest sponsored by the Dallas Morning News. The girls had an article to appear in the Dallas paper every week of football season except two.

Phyllis Harris and Paul Palmer represented the newspaper staff in the UIL Journalism contest in Houston. Phyllis placed third in the contest.

Seventy-two band members performed at pep rallies, football games, and parades in Carthage, Nacogdoches, and Teneha. UIL contests attracted many of the musicians. Sixteen superior ratings were won at Solo and Ensemble Contest, fourteen which were first class entries. Twirlers brought home six first and six second place ratings from twirling contest. IL Marching and Playing Contests were also participated in.

The stage band displayed another facet of the versatility of the music-makers. Nacogdoches and Houston invited the group participate in their stage band festivals. Debbie Rhiddlehoover, pianist, was chosen to the otherwise male all-star stage band the Houston festival. The stage band performed for numerous civic functions.

Ronnie Tompkins and Tommy Heaton were chosen for the All-Region Band. This was Tommy's second year to make the te group of musicians. Frances Langley was an alternate.

A concert and a show with the A Cappella Choir was on the agenda for the spring. At this concert in the spring Johnny elly was awarded the John Philip Sousa Award for the outstanding senior musician. This award was determined by a vote the band with approval by the principal.

Cherry Hood was chosen as band sweetheart. This honor was bestowed on her by a popular vote of the band. Cherry was esented at a football game half-time.

Representing region IV at the State Fair, October 11, was the A Cappella Choir. Seven members were chosen for the All-Region Choir, which presented its concert in Kilgore. Billy Honeycutt, Judy Boyd, and Paula Allen were representatives to the All-State Choir in Houston.

The choir participated in Solo and Ensemble Contest at Nacogdoches, and they won a first division rating at Regional choir contest in the same city.

Candy and records were sold by the members to raise money.

Spring brought a concert and a program with the band. Kathleen McKee was awarded the "Spirit of A Cappella Choir" award. This was the highest award of the choir which was determined on a basis of popular vote of the members.

The Select Singers was an integral part of the choir. They performed light numbers and entertained many civic groups with their music. They won first place at a talent contest in Gary.

Having a membership of about one hundred and thirty girls, this is one of the largest organizations on campus. During the late fall Bubba Smith was elected by the organization as "Mr. Football." This is the highest honor the Pep Squad can give.

Another tradition of the group was the friendship circle, shown here, that was made prior to each game when the school song was sung. Miss Sandra Walker is the sponsor of the group.

District Officers

For the first time since its creation, the local Key Club was the home club of the Governor of the District. Eddie Morrison was presiding officer over the entire Texas-Oklahoma District of Key Club International.

With the responsibility of governor came the added responsibility for publishing the Tex-O-Key, official newspaper of the district. Rick Applegate was chosen as editor.

The other district officers in addition to Morrison and Applegate were Scotty Bates, secretary and Palmer Clark, treasurer.

Sandra Roe, Key Club sweetheart, was honored with a dance. Miss Roe was chosen as sweetheart of the month over other district sweethearts.

Eddie Morrison was named as the outstanding Key Clubber this year. Ending his term as governor, Morrison acted as host to Key Club International Convention held in Dallas.

Library Club Aids Searching Scholars

Necessary services to students and teachers were performed by members of the Library Club and the library assistants. Miss Nell Copeland, librarian, trained the students in library work.

Attractive bulletin boards were prepared by members during the year. National Library Week was observed by the club, April 17-23.

Library assistants were responsible for filing books, checking books in and out for the students, caring for fines, and for aiding persons needing any type of assistance.

At Christmas the club celebrated with a party at Howard Johnson's.

Debaters Develop Speaking Ability

"Resolved that the federal government should prohibit compulsory unionism as a condition of employment" was the topic debated this year by the debate teams. Teams were carried by Mr. Ben Grant, sponsor, to tournaments at North Texas, Baylor, Stephen F. Austin, Sherman, Centenary, and the National Forensic League at Arlington.

Reba Harris and Sandra Roe won first place at the Sherman and SFA tournaments. Many of the members belonged to the National Forensic League. The NFL is a national organization for select speech students. Reba Harris held the highest degree attainable in this organization, the Degree of Distinction.

Eddie Morrison, who is a member of the NFL, participated in tournaments in individual events. He placed third at North Texas and Baylor in original oratory. He captured first place at district and second at regional in extemporaneous speaking.

Sandra Clabaugh won top honors at district in extemporaneous speaking and fourth in regional.

ink in CHS'S Chain of Time

Adding another link in CHS's chain of time began in August of 1965 when the staff members began selling ads for the 1966 yearbook. Kathleen McKee, editor, attended at workshop at Texas A&M University in the summer. Her cover design won third place in its category.

Some staff members attended the THSPA Convention in Denton. At this time the '65 yearbook received an ALL-TEXAS RATING.

A change was made this year in the dedication of the yearbook. Mr. and Mrs. Grady LaGrone, dedicatees, were acknowledged at the Pine Burr Party in January rather than in August at the arrival of the book. Mr. and Mrs. LaGrone both exemplify the theme of the yearbook.

"We of the International Relations Club propose to promote better international relations between ourselves and the people of other countries. To do this we must first study, second understand, and third act." This is the preamble to the constitution of the IRC which states their purpose and goals.

The Carthage chapter is a member of the International People to People Program. This organization, which is on a world-wide basis, strives for better understanding between peoples of the world.

This year members carried on a correspondence with schools in India and Korea. Scrapbooks of the club's activities were sent to each of the schools.

On November 1, 1965 and January 31, 1966, the club journeyed to Marshall for a program at ETBC. During the year, the members were responsible for a rotunda display, which they were pictured in front of, and for providing floats in the local parades.

A Season of Surprise Wins for Carthage

For the best season in two years, the Bulldogs posted a 7-4 over all record and a 4-3 record in district competition, ending up third in 7-AAA. The statistics of football season will soon be forgotten, but memories of events brought about during this time will hold a special place.

No Carthage fan will forget the night of the Palestine game. The dismal prospect of dropping the fifth consecutive game, any hope was all but gone for the Bulldogs. With only one minute and fifty-four seconds left in the last quarter the Dogs streaked from behind to win their first game. They were victorious in the next two encounters.

A rivalry dating back forty-three years exists between the two foes, Center and Carthage. Each team had won 20 and tied 2. Carthage was looking for a victory that would keep them in league standings but upsetminded Center put a damper on Carthage's hope by winning in a 14-13 thriller.

The Bulldogs then downed league-leading Kilgore 20-0. They were once again in the running to wear the 7-AAA crown.

Excitement was great at the pep rally preceding the Carthage-Nacogdoches game for two reasons. It was possibly the last pep rally for seniors to participate in if they were defeated, and an honor was bestowed upon a great friend and fan of the Bulldogs, former head coach J. E. (Red) Willis. Coach Willis, a veteran of 44 years of coaching experience, was presented the football used in the Kilgore game and a citation which expressed the deep love, respect, and appreciation the students have for Coach Willis.

Carthage did not represent the district in the state playoffs, but as Coach Fred Goeke says, "It could have been a lot worse."

Senior Manager

Carthage's Suicide Squad is the main opposing force of the Bulldog team during the long preparation on the practice field.

With a 3-4 record for the season, the team felt that their participation in football for Carthage prepared the Bulldogs for their opponents and gave underclassmen squad members the experience for next season.

The Suicide Squad gave the fuel which provided the lift-off win for the Dogs against Palestine, Henderson, Kilgore and Jacksonville.

Two Suicide Squad members get ready for the '66 season.

Dogs Finish Best Season

CHS Bulldogs, coached by Bill Tatum, finished a successful season in their basketball history with a convincing victory over Kilgore with a 53-48 victory.

The victory at Kilgore once aagin gave the team the right to say they were one of the best in the state and perhaps the best in East Texas.

Expert ball handling and fine shooting was highlighted by the squad this season. They won the Gladewater and Longview Tournaments, and placed second in their own tournament.

This was the winningest team Carthage has ever produced. The season record was 27-5. The team finished second in District, one game behind Kilgore.

Robbie Smith, Richard Holland, and Tommy Allison are presented beau awards at the PINE BURR party by annual members, Anita Steptoe, Marilyn Harrison, and Phyllis Harris.

Fifty CHS students were presented awards at the 1966 PINE BURR party, but everyone had a wonderful time whether they received special recognition or not.

The entire student body elects all the favorites each year by secret ballots.

A highlight of the party was the announcement of the dedication of the 1966 PINE BURR to Mr. and Mrs. Grady LaGrone. The staff this year chose to honor its dedicatees throughout the year by announcing the dedication at the PINE BURR party, rather than in the summer.

The 1966 PINE BURR party is climaxed by the presentation of Mr. CHS to Gary Don Edge.

"Mr. Q.M." Resigns

Superintendent of the Carthage schools for the past thirty-nine years, Mr. Q. M. Martin has successfully developed the educational potential of the Panola County area. Under his able leadership, the Carthage Independent School District has been one of the nation's pilot schools for several years. His trips to Europe and to Russia to study foreign education systems show his extreme devotion and active interest in the progress and development of high principles of education in the United States and Texas, and with the unselfish concern for education on the local level. Mr. Martin's interest in art and culture appreciation in the area, his work in the church, and his sense of responsibility as a civic leader have earned for him the respect and admiration of the citizens he has served. Accepting a position as professor of English at Lon Morris College at Jacksonville, Mr. Martin—administrator, artist, and friend of education—leaves the school system with a firm foundation for progress in the future.

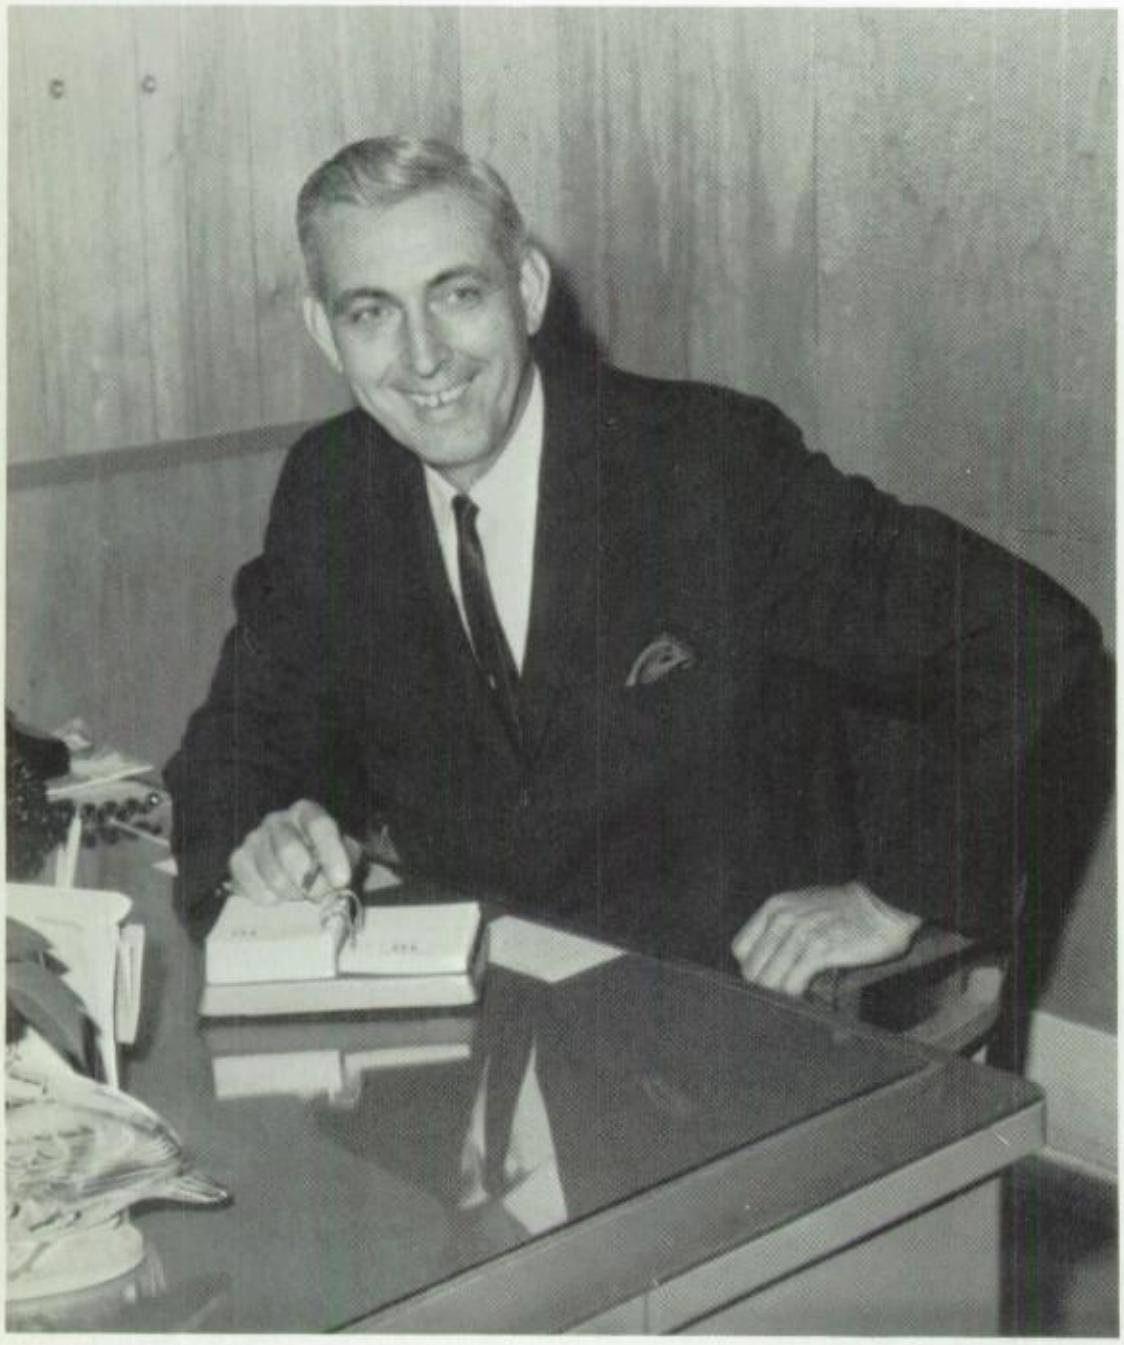
Koonce Junio



MR. GEORGE EARL CARIKER
Principal

The Koonce Junior School faculty works to produce versatile students. Language arts, social science, mathematics, and P.E. form the major portion of a student's study. In addition, students may take Spanish, debate, choir, or band.

Since seventh and eighth are the two grades preceding high school, the students are prepared by these courses for further education.

P.E. students, drilled by Mr. Glynn Brooks and Mr. Arthur Brister, develop physical fitness, a vital part of a young person's training. In a complete contrast to physical fitness, students nourish their mental growth in the Koonce library, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Morton and student workers.

Mr. Glynn Brooks drills Koonce P.E. students on exercises.

Mrs. Ruth Morton and Mrs. Betty Bounds discuss ideas in the library.

Teachers Direct Students

Teachers direct students not only in their studies, but also in their pursuit of extra-curricular activities. These faculty members sponsor several such activities. Pep squad, choir, band, Student Council, and Athletics program are all offered to the Koonce students.

Since the formation of the Koonce Junior School three years ago, the Student Council has been one of its leading hands in helping to formulate the work of the school. The students look to the council to make their important decisions, to sponsor its parties and socials, to supervise its elections, and to present to the public the face of Koonce Junior School.

A student who serves on the council has contributed toward the success of his junior school and has prepared himself for work in the senior high organization.

Mrs. Philip Koonce, Mr. Philip Koonce and Mrs. Q. M. Marin stand before the portrait of Dr. P. B. Koonce for whom Koonce J School was named. The ceremony took place at the close of school, May 20, 1966.

Because of his outstanding support of education and his intensive interest in the successful development of the youth of the area, Dr. P. B. Koonce was beloved and respected by all who knew him. An enthusiastic sports fan, president of the school board, and local dentist, Dr. Koonce guided the progress of the Carthage Independent School District for many years, and during his term as president, directed the construction of the present high school building. Dr. Koonce's memory will live on in the name of P. B. Koonce Junior School and be a constant reminder through the portrait dedicated this year.

Dr. P.B. Koonce Portrait Given Koonce Junior School

Mr. Earl Cariker, principal, accepts the portrait on behalf of the students and faculty of Koonce Junior School from Mrs. Q. M. Martin. Mrs. Martin made the presentation of the portrait possible.

High School, Here We Come!

Koonce Junior School, as we the staff have pictured it, is a preparation for the High School years which are to follow. Koonce School is included in the High School annual, and the work is done by High School students so that the students in Koonce and in High School will better understand one another as a result of having to work cooperatively.

Mr. Mike Templeton, choir director, contemplates a musical number before the next class.

Mrs. Betty Bounds supervises one of the many study halls that Koonce maintains for supervised study.

Dear Nanda,
you are the best friend that I ever had. (H.) I hope our friendship will be still going strong until we are old and gray. May everything in life good the way you want.
The best of luck to you and James. May
God Bless. Love ya,
Brenda
